DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to the Applicant's communication filed on 4/20/2001.
2. Claims 1-42 are pending and presented for examination, upon which, claims 1 and 36 are the independent claims. Other claims are the dependent.

Priority

3. Applicant's claim for domestic priority under 35 U.S.C. 119(e) of the US provisional applications serial number 60/198,731, filed on 4/20/2000 and serial number 60/209,866, filed on 6/7/2000 is acknowledged. Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

4. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

5. Claim 1-23 and 36-42 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because they are directed to non-statutory subject matter, specifically, as directed to an abstract idea.

As per claims 1 and 36, the language of the claims raises a question as to whether the claims are directed merely to an abstract idea that is not tied to a technological art, environment or machine which would result in a practical application producing a concrete, useful, and tangible result to form the basis of statutory subject matter under 35 U. S.C 101.

As per claims 2-23 and 37-42, they contain also the same deficiency in virtue of dependency of claims 1 and 36.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

Art Unit: 2165

6. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

7. Claims 1- 42 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Shirley et al.(U. S. Pat. No. 5,692,206)

As per claim 1, Shirley et al. disclose “a method and apparatus for automating the generation of a legal document” by providing a contract generation system that automates the generation of various legal documents related to a negotiated agreement (See Shirley et al. Title and Abstract). In particular, Shirley et al. disclose the claimed limitations of “formulating a request by a first party for an agreement with a second party, the request containing an agreement ID that uniquely identifies the request and any agreement formed therefrom”(See Shirley et al. col.12, lines 32-38, Figs.7, 9 and corresponding text, Fig.11B, components 860, 866, 872 and corresponding text). Also Shirley et al. disclose the claimed limitations of “sending the request to the second party” (See Shirley et al. Abstract, col.3, line 56 through col.4, line 24); “receiving correspondence from the second party regarding the request or any agreement formed therefrom” (See Shirley et al.(See Shirley et al. col.10, lines 7-16). Further, disclose the claimed limitations of “saving the correspondence from the second party according to the unique agreement ID” (See Shirley et al. col.10, lines 16-18 and lines 54-62).

As per claim 36, the claim has substantially the same limitations as claim 1. These limitations have already been discussed in the rejection of claim 1. In addition, Shirley et al.

further disclose the claimed limitations of “linking the second agreement to the first agreement by including the first agreement ID” by providing a site number or information to identify the contract (See Shirley et al. col.10, lines 19-28 and col.12, lines 32-38) and also disclose the claimed limitations of “in the field identifying a downstream agreement to form a supply chain among the first, second and third parties” (See Shirley et al. col.7, lines 22-40, and Fig.7 col.8, lines 18-48). Therefore, it is rejected on similar grounds corresponding to the argument given for the rejected claim 1 above.

As per claims 2 and 24, most of the limitations of this claim have been noted in the rejection of claim 1. Applicant’s attention is directed to the rejection of claim 1 above. In addition, Shirley et al. disclose the claimed limitations of “wherein the first party has an independent agreement database” (See Shirley et al. Fig.2 component 202 correspond to an independent agreement database); further including the step of storing the request in the agreement database in a record that includes or is linked to the agreement ID, after formulating the request (See Shirley et al. col.4, lines 40-58); and wherein the step of saving the correspondence from the second party includes storing the second party correspondence in the agreement database of the first party in a record that includes or is linked to the agreement ID (See Shirley et al. col.10, lines 16-22).

As per claims 3, 12, 25 and 31, most of the limitations of this claim have been noted in the rejection of claim 1. Applicant’s attention is directed to the rejection of claim 1 above. In addition, Shirley et al. disclose the claimed limitations of “wherein the correspondence from the second party includes information relating to a counter offer, a request for clarification, an acceptance or a rejection of the request or a notification that the correspondence from the second party will be delayed” (See Shirley et al. 10, lines 1-17).

As per claims 4, 9, 13 and 18, Shirley et al. disclose the invention substantially as claimed. In addition, Shirley et al. disclose the claimed limitations of “wherein the correspondence from the second party is encapsulated in an electronic mail message that contains the agreement ID” (See Shirley et al. Fig.8 component 722 and col.4, lines 59-65).

As per claims 5, 8, 26, 29, Shirley et al. disclose the invention substantially as claimed. In addition, Shirley et al. disclose the claimed limitations of “wherein the correspondence from the second party includes a main body of information and an attachment to the main body; and wherein the attachment is according to the agreement ID” (See Shirley et al.col.5, lines 31-46).

As per claims 6 and 27, Shirley et al. disclose the invention substantially as claimed. In addition, Shirley et al. disclose the claimed limitations of “wherein the correspondence from the second party includes information unrelated to the formation or modification of the agreement, yet still related to the agreement” (See Shirley et al. Fig. 11B components 862, 868, 874 and corresponding text).

As per claims 7, 16, 22, 28, and 34, Shirley et al. disclose the invention substantially as claimed. In addition, Shirley et al. disclose the claimed limitations of “wherein the correspondence from the second party is taken from the group consisting of: a facsimile transmission, an electronic mail message, a letter sent by post, or an HTML document”(See Shirley et al. Fig.8 component 722 and col.12, lines 3-18).

As per claims 10, 14, 17, 23, 30, 32, and 35, Shirley et al. disclose the invention substantially as claimed. In addition, Shirley et al. disclose the claimed limitations of “further including the steps of: sending correspondence from the first party to the second party relating to the request or any agreement derived therefrom; and saving the correspondence from the first party relating to the request according to the unique agreement ID given the request” (See Shirley et al. Abstract, Fig.7 component 660 and col.9, lines 27-30).

As per claims 11, 19, and 20, Shirley et al. disclose the invention substantially as claimed. In addition, Shirley et al. disclose the claimed limitations of “wherein the step of saving the correspondence from the first party relating to the request includes storing the first party correspondence in the agreement database of the first party in a record that includes or is linked to the agreement ID” (See Shirley et al. Abstract, Fig.12C component 936. and col.19, lines 4-18).

As per claims 15, 21, and 33, Shirley et al. disclose the invention substantially as claimed. In addition, Shirley et al. disclose the claimed limitations of “wherein the correspondence from the first party includes information unrelated to the formation or modification of the agreement, yet still related to the agreement”(See Shirley et al. Fig.7, and col.4, lines 40-58).

As per claims 37 and 39, most of the limitations of this claim have been noted in the rejection of claim 36. Applicant's attention is directed to the rejection of claim 36 above. In addition, Shirley et al. disclose the claimed limitations of "wherein the step of linking includes: specifying the first deliverable in the second request based on the deliverables of a list of customers (See Shirley et al. col.10, lines 48-62 and col.17, lines 1-17), each having a deliverable due from the second party (See Shirley et al. Abstract, col.3, line 56 through col.4, line 24); and obtaining the first agreement ID based on the deliverable specified (See Shirley et al. col.10, lines 7-16)".

As per claims 38 and 40, most of the limitations of this claim have been noted in the rejection of claim 36. Applicant's attention is directed to the rejection of claim 36 above. In addition, Shirley et al. disclose the claimed limitations of "wherein the step of formulating the second request includes specifying a second deliverable and a date and time for the second deliverable (See Shirley et al. col.2, lines 14-18, col.10, lines 10-12 and lines 52-62); and wherein the step of linking includes: specifying the first deliverable in the second request based on the deliverables of a list of customers (See Shirley et al. col.10, lines 48-62 and col.17, lines 1-17), each having a deliverable due from the second party with a due date and time subsequent to the date and time of the second deliverable (See Shirley et al. col.2, lines 14-18, col.10, lines 10-12 and lines 52-62); and obtaining the first agreement ID based on the deliverable specified (See Shirley et al. See Shirley et al. col.10, lines 7-16)".

As per claims 41 and 42, most of the limitations of this claim have been noted in the rejection of claim 36. Applicant's attention is directed to the rejection of claim 36 above. In addition, Shirley et al. disclose the claimed limitations of "wherein the step of formulating the second request includes specifying a folder and a second deliverable (See Shirley et al. Fig.1B component 200, Fig.5 component 200, Fig.8, Fig.9, col.6, lines 30-41, line 56 through col.7, lines 13, and col.12, line 28 through col.13, line 8); and wherein the step of linking includes: specifying the first deliverable in the second request based on the deliverables of a list of customers included in the specified folder (See Shirley et al. col.10, lines 48-62 and col.17, lines 1-17); and obtaining the first agreement ID based on the deliverable specified (See Shirley et al. col.10, lines 7-16)".
